

Guidance for living

How do I know how to behave at home, in school and in society?
Who and what guides me and influences my behaviour and actions?

Who in my life can I trust to support and guide me? Why do I trust them to do this?

My hand represents the names of people and things I can trust on the fingers and the attributes that makes them trustworthy in the palm.

Like the people and things that I trust, sacred texts in many religions provide guidance for living and support for believers which they can trust and consider to be special.
