

Climate Change Task

Wednesday 13th January

Perfect Planet

For today's learning, I am going to be handing over to the best teacher ever- David Attenborough!

I would like you to watch the first episode of his new series 'Perfect Planet' focusing on volcanoes found on iPlayer. It will help you understand how complex our 'perfect planet' is and how everything needs to be 'just right' in order to sustain life as it is. Until I watched this, I didn't appreciate that there was a connection between climate change and volcanoes. It helped me understand how finely balanced life on Earth is.

Try and watch this with an adult when it works for your family and afterwards think about and discuss what you think the connections may be between volcanoes and climate change.

There is no written work for this- I just want you to watch and learn!

Warning- it does involve predators and prey and even a little blood (part of life on Earth) but is well worth the watch!
