Jade's party

Introduction

What's your favourite type of party?

What do you have to get ready if you are having a party?

Where do you go shopping for party things?

In this story, it's Jade's birthday and she's very excited. She goes with her big brother, Dave, to the shops with a shopping list. They have fun loading the trolley and choosing napkins and balloons. But, when they get home and unpack... something has gone horribly wrong...

Vocabulary check

Discuss the meaning (as used in the story) after the children have read each word.

|                       | definition:  | sentence/phrase:                                   |
|-----------------------|--|--|
| group                 | a pop group  |  |
| raced                 | walked really quickly  | We raced along to the bus stop.                    |
| stale                 | food that isn't fresh  | Out of the bag came a packet of stale fishcakes... |
| past the sell-by date | food that is stale   | (past the sell-by date).                           |
| sparklers             | a metal stick with special material that lights up and sparkles when lit | I had a chocolate cake with seven sparklers on it. |

- Punctuation to note in this story:
1. Capital letters to start sentences and full stops to end sentences
  2. Capital letters for names
  3. Exclamation marks to show anger, shock and surprise
  4. 'Wait and see' dots...

Jade's party

My name is Jade.
It was my birthday on Sunday,
and I had a party.
But the party almost didn't happen!
I'll tell you why.

Dad made a shopping list.

twenty bread rolls
three packets of cheese
ten bags of crisps
ten milk shakes
ten cans of lemonade
a packet of napkins and a packet of plates
a packet of balloons
a tape of party music
a big chocolate cake

Dave's my teenage brother.

Dad asked him to take me to the shops on the bus to get all the stuff for the party.

We got a trolley, and Dave looked at the list.

First, we went to the place where they bake bread.

Dave picked up twenty rolls and put them in the trolley.

(I picked up a currant bun, and hid it under the rolls.)

Then I found the cheese.
(Dave found the currant bun,
and told me to behave.)

Crisps ... milk shakes ...
lemonade ...

The trolley was filling up.

Party napkins, plates and a big packet of balloons.
Dave said he'd blow them up.

A tape - we got a good one by a new group.

And then the most important thing:
a chocolate cake (the biggest, with 'Happy Birthday' on top).

We went to the checkout to pay. A girl put all the stuff in plastic bags and gave them to Dave.

Then we raced along the pavement to the bus stop.
We made up party games on the way.

Dad started to unpack the shopping.

Out came ... a packet of stale fishcakes

(past the sell-by date) ...

a can of hair spray ... a bunch of grapes ...

a jar of marmalade ... and a jumbo pack of nappies!

Dad's face went pale.

"For goodness' sake, Dave!" he said. "What have you got to say?"

Dave said, "We must have picked up the wrong shopping by mistake.

Plastic bags all look the same to me. I'll take the blame, Dad.

I'll take it all back to the shops on Monday."

Well, it was a bit of a shame.

I hate grapes, and we didn't need hair spray - or nappies!

But it was okay in the end.

We had the party at a pizza place instead.

We had pizza, and chips, and pop.

Then, out came a man with a birthday cake!

A chocolate one, with seven sparklers on it. For me!
